Colbert and Fran Walsh, who co-wrote the screenplay with Charles Leavitt. The film stars Jack Black in the title role, alongside Jessica Alba, Adrien Brody, Angela Bassett, Paula Patton, and Billy Crudup. The story is based on the 1933 film King Kong, for which the screenwriter originally intended to write a sequel, but was persuaded by Jackson to re-write the story and create a new character. Unlike Jackson's previous two blockbusters, The Lord of the Rings and The Fellowship of the Ring, King Kong was a box office failure. It grossed $93.5 million worldwide, against a budget of $208 million. It won the 2005 MTV Movie Award for Best Kiss, and was nominated for many other awards, including the Academy Award for Best Visual Effects. John Goodman and Matt Damon in King Kong (2005) The film is set in New York City on the lower East Side during the Great Depression, and centers on a giant gorilla named Kong whose rampage through the city leads to the death of a construction worker. Kong is captured and taken to the Empire State Building, but escapes and heads into the neighboring Chrysler Building, where he nearly topples the building while fighting the police. Kong is shot by a hunter, prompting a fight with a helicopter

With 20 players drafted in 2018, a number that has only been exceeded twice in league history (1966 and 1983), there is still plenty of time for stories to emerge about potential draftees, potential fit, and potential problems, especially for the final three months before the draft. A number of names continue to pop up in discussions, especially those involved with the top overall pick. Oklahoma's Kyle Murray, Clemson's Trevor Lawrence, and Alabama's Tua Tagovailoa are all considered potential first overall picks. But with the possibility of another quarterback being selected in the top three, no quarterback will be selected before the second round. While we wait to see who will be taken first overall, let's take a look at some of the players that may help their draft stock ahead of the draft. Marcus Davenport, EDGE, Iowa At 6-5, 255 pounds, Davenport is a hybrid between Will and Jadevon Clowney. Coming out of Iowa, Davenport showed off impressive athleticism at his pro day, running the 40-yard dash in 5.11 seconds. Davenport is the most NFL-ready edge rusher in the class. His ability to rush from the inside and outside, while having the ability to sit down and play the run game will fit him in as a situational pass rusher in the NFL. Davenport will not immediately start for an NFL team, but the positive injury profile will allow him to rise up draft boards. While it is not something that will be highly discussed in the college football world, Davenport will be a player that is discussed at the NFL combine. Jaleel Johnson, OT, Iowa Johnson is entering a unique draft season, as he is a senior coming into the draft. This is 570a42141b
